BOOK I

ACTION¹

TITLE I

ACTION IN GENERAL

CHAPTER I

BASIC PROVISIONS

Article 1 – Bar on restitution by force - No one is permitted to restitute for himself the exercise of his rights by his own force and authority, except in the cases and within the limits prescribed by law.

¹ The word Action (“acção”) corresponding to Latin “actio” means a legal proceeding to enforce or protect a right and in a wider sense includes both civil and criminal proceedings.

It is a basic term used practically throughout, in this Code of Civil Procedure and requires explanation. It is often translated as suit but it has a wider meaning. In Article 2, for example, it means remedy or legal means to enforce a right. At times it means the right itself to avail of a legal remedy. It also means claim, proceeding, judicial proceedings, judicial means; in its wider sense it can include both civil or criminal judicial proceedings. It means an action, right, a claim, a law suit, a right of action. It also means litigation for redress of a grievance. It means the act of resorting to authority to vindicate one's right, or, metaphorically the right to such resort, or the form or mould of such resort.

Sometimes it is even extended to appeal or even second appeal but whether counter claim is included is doubtful. In this Code, it includes suits and other civil proceedings.

- There is a similar provision under Article 2535 of the Portuguese Civil Code. In Indian Law we have this type of provision only on the Criminal side as Right of private defence under Sections 96 to 106 of the Indian Penal Code 1860.
- Self-defence is exceptionally permitted in the circumstances and on the terms mentioned in Articles 486, 2354 and 2367 of the Civil Code.

Article 2 - Co-relation between right and remedy - For every right there is a corresponding action meant to protect the same or have it judicially declared and to render it effective, except when the law specifically lays down the contrary.

- This is a statutory enactment of the maxim 'Ubi jus ibi remedium'.
- Certain rights are expressly declared unenforceable like right to an amount loaned to a minor, without adequate permission (Art. 1535 of the Civil Code) and right to an amount owed in gambling (Art. 1542 of the Civil Code).

Article 3 - Necessity of petition and defence - The court shall not resolve a conflict of interest which an action presupposes unless the relief is prayed for by one of the parties and the other is duly called upon to oppose the same. But in exceptional cases envisaged by law, measures may be taken against a person without the said person being heard.

- The first part of this Article requires that relief should be specifically stated as in O.VII, r. 7 C.P.C, 1908. The next portion of the article deals with the basic rule of natural justice of hearing the other side ("Audi alteram partem") which is found in Section 27 to 29 and entire Order 5 as also O. 39, r.3, first part of C.P.C. 1908. Further ex-parte Order is also contemplated which we have by way of interim relief eg. under O. 39 r. 3, proviso.
- Examples of exceptional cases in which measures can be taken against a specified person without hearing the same are; Provisional restitution of possession (Art. 400), Preventive orders (Art. 406), Attachment (Art. 410), Injunction against new construction (Art. 423), Enlistment of assets (Art. 431(3)), Interdiction for lunacy (Arts. 947 / 951), Interdiction for prodigality (Art. 960) and Declaration of insolvency (Art. 1142).

Article 4 - Types of actions and their purpose - Actions are of plain appreciation or declaration, mandatory orders, injunctions, restoration and executions. The purpose is as follows:-

- (a) Those of plain enquiry, are solely for obtaining the declaration of the existence or inexistence of any right or fact.
 - (b) Mandatory orders to direct the delivery of anything or the performance of any act.
 - (c) Injunctions, to prevent a damage which is apprehended.
 - (d) Restoration, authorizing a change in the existing juridical relations.
 - (e) Executory to render effective a right already declared.
- Clauses (a), (b) and (c) as translated corresponds to declaratory, mandatory and to suits for preventive injunction. Clause (d) relating to change of juridical relations includes suits for divorce, declaration of paternity; on the property side, proceedings for acquisition, easement, partition of property and so on, clause (e) refers to execution proceedings. cf. Alberto Dos Reis, 'Comentário ao Código de Processo Civil', Vol. 1, Coimbra Editora, Lim, Coimbra 1960, pgs.19-22 and 'Código de Processo Civil Anotado', Vol. 1, Coimbra Editora, Lim, Coimbra 1948, pgs.21-24.

CHAPTER II PARTIES

SECTION I JUDICIAL PERSONALITY AND JUDICIAL CAPACITY

Article 5 - Concept and measure of judicial personality - Judicial personality consists in the aptitude to be a party. One who has juridical personality has judicial personality.

Article 6 - Judicial personality without juridical personality - An inheritance, whose title holder has not yet been decided and similar autonomous estates, legally existing associations, and societies of civil nature, not being family societies, may be parties, even though they do not have juridical personality.

Article 7 - Judicial personality of branch offices – Branch offices, agencies, affiliated commercial units or delegations may sue or be sued when the action is based on an act or fact done by them.

§ Sole Paragraph: If the principal administration has a head office or domicile in a foreign country, the branches, agencies, affiliates or delegations established in Portugal, may sue or be sued, even though the action arises from an act or fact done by former, when the obligation has been contracted with a Portuguese national.

- Article 85, Paragraph 4 of this Code.
“Act” is defined as “something done or performed, especially voluntarily, a deed, an occurrence that results from a person’s will being exerted” (Black’s Law Dictionary, Thomson Reuters, 10th Edition 2014, pg.29).
“Fact” is a thing done or performed, an action, deed. Also action in general. (The Shorter Oxford Dictionary, on historical principles, Clarendon Press, 1990, Vol. 1, pg. 717).

Article 8 - Personality of irregular societies - The societies and associations, which are not legally constituted, but are acting as if legally constituted, are not entitled to raise the plea of irregularity of their constitution; but the action may be filed against the persons who, according to the law, have liability arising from respective act or fact.

§ Sole Paragraph: When a society or associations are sued, they are permitted to raise a counterclaim in defence.

Article 9 - Concept and measure of judicial capacity - The judicial capacity consists of the capacity to appear in person before the court and has as its basis and measure the capacity to exercise rights.

- Note to Articles 5 & 9:-
The Code distinguishes between Judicial Personality and Judicial Capacity. Judicial Personality is the susceptibility or ability to be a party as Applicant, Petitioner or Respondent, and the second is the susceptibility to be a party as Petitioner/Plaintiff (called active judicial capacity) or as Respondent/Defendant (passive judicial capacity).
This distinction runs parallel to the one made in the Civil Code between capacity for rights (Civil Capacity) or Juridical Personality (Civil Code, Art. 1) and the capacity to exercise the rights (Civil Code, Arts. 5, 98, 314, 337, 340).
In principle, juridical personality and judicial personality (Art. 5) coincide, so also capacity for exercise of rights, civil capacity and judicial capacity (Art. 9) also coincides. For example, a minor or a person interdicted for lunacy have juridical personality and for this reason have judicial personality; but since they do not have the capacity to exercise rights (Civil Capacity) they are also without judicial capacity (Art. 10).
However, juridical and judicial personality, as also capacity to exercise rights (Civil Capacity) and judicial capacity are not always the same thing. There are exceptions; in which judicial personality is recognized in entities which do not have juridical personality (Art. 6, 7 & 8), and in which a certain judicial capacity is attributed to persons otherwise incapable to exercising their rights (Art. 13) – cf. A. dos Reis, op. cit. 1960, pg. 23-25 and ‘A. dos Reis, op. cit. 1948, pg. 26-27.

Article 10 - Representation of persons without legal capacity - The incapables² may appear in the court only through their representatives, except in the acts which they are permitted to act in person.

§ Sole Paragraph: If there is conflict of interest between an incapable and his representative, or the spouse, or ascendants, or descendants of the latter, such an incapable shall be represented in the proceedings by a special curator. The same shall be followed when there is a conflict between several incapables who have the same representative. In such case, to each group of the interested parties in conflict, there shall be appointed one curator.

The appointment of the curator shall be done by the court after hearing the Public Ministry.

- See Civil Code Articles 59, 71, 138, 139, 153, 155, 185, 243, 321, 339, and 349.

It is also permissible to apply to the court to appoint a provisional curator, where there is urgency in filing of the action. In the latter case, immediately after the action is filed, the competent court shall move to seek the appointment of the general representative, who shall take the place of the provisional curator in the action.

§ Sole Paragraph: The appointments referred to in this article and the sole paragraph of the preceding article shall be applied for, by the Public Ministry³ or by any relative up to the sixth degree where the incapable is the applicant. Where he has to figure as a respondent, the application shall be moved by the applicant.

Article 12 - Powers of the guardian and the curator - For filing of actions, the guardian requires permission of the family council, and the curator requires judicial permission except if the action is purely of protective nature or the delay in filing the same may result in the extinguishment of the right or of any security.

- See Civil Code Articles 9, 17, 59, 224, 243 and 351.
- Action of protective nature means preventive relief like injunction.

Article 13 - Judicial capacity of minors of more than 14 years and those interdicted for prodigality - Minors, not emancipated, more than 14 years of age, and those interdicted on account of prodigality, shall be permitted to intervene in actions in which they are parties and they shall be summoned when they are defendants.

§ Sole Paragraph: In the event, if the minor completes 14 years of age during the pendency of the matter and after his representative has been summoned, he need not be summoned again, though he may be a respondent, but he may intervene on his own initiative.

Article 14 - Representation of persons disabled from receiving summons or notice - Persons who in any of the circumstances mentioned in Paragraphs 1, 2 and 3 of Article 236 are infact unable to receive the summons or notice, shall be represented by a curator appointed in the terms of the said article.

(1) This representation shall cease when found unnecessary or when a document is submitted which proves that the interdiction was legally established. The lack of need for curatorship

³ Public Ministry – The expression “Ministerio Publico” found all over the Portuguese Civil Procedure Code has been translated as Public Ministry. It is a function of the State on the civil side whereby the State intervenes in various proceedings in the interest of the public, of the citizens particularly persons without legal capacity like children. This function was performed by State law officers attached to the Courts.

When the Public Ministry represents the applicant, a special defence lawyer shall be appointed.

§ Sole Paragraph: The representation by the Public Ministry or the appointed defence lawyer shall cease as soon as the absentee person appears or his representative or the representative of the legally disabled persons appoints an advocate.

Article 16 - Representation of uncertain persons - When the action is filed solely against uncertain parties, they shall be represented by the Public Ministry. In the event the Public Ministry represents the applicant, the assigned counsel shall be appointed to serve as special agent of the Public Ministry to represent the uncertain parties.

§ Sole Paragraph: Such representation shall cease as soon as any person whose locus standi has been acknowledged by judgment appears to intervene as respondent.

Article 17 - Husband's capacity to institute proceedings - The husband may, without the written consent from the wife, file any actions, except those, which are meant to acknowledge the ownership, absolute or limited of the immobile assets, whether common or exclusively of the wife.

Article 377 of Portuguese Civil Code, 1867 – Immobile things and mobiliary things – When in the civil law or in the acts or contracts, the expression - immobile assets or things - is used, without any other qualification, it shall include not only those which are immovable by nature or human action as also those which are so by operation of law. JURISDICTION AND PREVENTION OF BIAS

GENERAL PROVISIONS AS TO JURISDICTION

Article 62 - International Jurisdiction and internal jurisdiction – requisite conditions - The Portuguese courts have international jurisdiction when any of the circumstances mentioned in Article 65 is satisfied.

In internal matters, jurisdictional power allotted to different courts, as a rule, as per the subject matter and the value of the action, the judicial hierarchy, and the territory. In exceptional cases, the type of respondent is also taken into consideration.

- Portuguese Civil Procedure distinguishes doctrinally between the concepts of Jurisdiction and Competence. Lack of Jurisdiction means, that the matter cannot be filed in any Court in the land. Competence refers to the allotment of jurisdictional powers amongst different Courts, all of which otherwise have jurisdiction. Unfortunately, this theoretical distinction is not clearly maintained in the Code itself, jurisdiction being covered by Article 65 as international jurisdiction and competence under Article 66 onwards (chapter 3 under the title internal competence). In this translation also, strict adherence to the distinction has not been possible.
- Articles 62 - 121 – Jurisdiction - Corresponding provisions in C.P.C. 1908: -
 - Jurisdiction of the Courts and res judicata - Ss. 9-21A

Article 63 - Law regulating jurisdiction - Competence is fixed with reference to the time when the action is instituted. The factual modifications which occur subsequent to the said time are irrelevant; so also changes in law are not relevant, except where the Court in which the case is instituted is extinguished or the same court ceases to have jurisdiction as to the subject-matter and the hierarchy.

- (c) It is intended to protect any Portuguese citizen, on the principle of reciprocity;
- (d) The right cannot be rendered effective unless the action is instituted in Portuguese courts.

§ 1: When as per the Portuguese law for the purpose of the action, the court of the domicile of the defendant is competent, the Portuguese courts may exercise their jurisdiction provided the defendant resides in Portugal for more than 6 months or he is found accidentally in the Portuguese territory, provided that, in the latter case, one of the parties to the obligation is a Portuguese subject.

In the absence of the stipulation, the service of summons shall be made by postal service by registered letter with acknowledgment due, with the remittance of respective duplicate. In the letter it will be declared that the addressee is summoned for the purpose of the suit as referred to the duplicate with the precise indication of the court where the suit is pending and time up to which the defence can be filed and what are the consequences in the case of default; also mention shall be made of the section of the court, if allotment has already been done. The announcement shall reproduce the text of the notices.

§ Sole Paragraph: The extended period shall vary between 30 days to 6 months.

Article 250 – How the time for defence is counted in case of service by publication - The notice is deemed as served on the day when the last publication is done. From this date the period of extension is to be added. This addition shall be done to the statutory period and only from the end of the extended period, the defence is required to be submitted.

Article 251 – Form of service by publication due to uncertainty of person - The service by publication on account of uncertainty of the person shall be done in accordance with the articles 248 to 250, with the following modifications:

Only one notice will be affixed on the door of the court, except where the uncertain parties are called upon as heirs or representatives of the deceased person, because in such case, besides the notice affixed at the door of the court, in addition one more notice is to be affixed at the residence of the deceased and other at the door of the house of the administrative authority of the respective parish, if they are known and in the country;
2. The announcement shall be made by publication in the newspaper widely read in the seat of the judicial division;
3. The extended period shall not be lesser than 30 days nor more than 60 days.

Article 252 – Filing of the notice and publication in the record - One copy of the publication shall be annexed to the file, in which the bailiff shall declare the dates and the places where the affixation has been done; the affixation shall be done in one sheet of paper, which is also required to be annexed to the file, and the announcement made respectively and extracted from the newspaper, indicating the title and dates of the publication.

Article 253 – Retroactive effect of service delayed for no fault of Petitioner – In respect of interruption of the prescription, the effect of the service of notice, delayed for no reason not attributable to the petitioner operates retroactively to the dates when the suit was instituted.

- The provisions of this article are meant to avoid that the defendant takes advantage of any devices or efforts tending to delay the service or that the plaintiff suffers prejudice as a result of delay in service of summons, when this delay is not due to his fault.
- In view of Art.552(2) of the Civil Code and Art.485(a) of the Civil Procedure Code interruption of prescription takes place only from the time when the defendant is summoned; it is not sufficient for this purpose that the suit has been filed that is that the respective plaint has been received in the office (Art.267) Suppose a debt is incurred subject to prescription of one year under Art.539 of the Civil Code; when there are only two days to complete the period of prescription the creditor presented in the office the plaint for the suit meant to recover the debt and applied for immediate service on the debtor; but the latter came to be summoned only after 3, 4 or 5 days. Should the prescription be considered as interrupted or not?
- As prescription is interrupted only by the act of summoning and this has taken place after the expiry of the time fixed by Art.539 of the Civil Code it appears that the debt should be considered as prescribed. This would indeed in fact happen if the provision of Art.253 were not there.
- By virtue of this article we have to distinguish;
 - (a) Either the delay in service of summon that is the fact that the defendant is summoned after 3, 4, 5 days instead of being summoned immediately, is due to the reason attributable to the plaintiff;
 - (b) Or it is due to the cause attributable to the defendant (he sought to delay service by absenting himself) or to the court office (it was negligent in complying with the order) or to the judge (he was not quick in ordering the summons);
 - (c) Or it is not attributable to any person and results from circumstances in the nature of force major, of any fortuitous circumstances or genuine impediment.
- In the 1st case the debt prescribes because the normal effect of Art.552(2) of the Civil Code, Art.485(a) of the Civil Procedure Code and the rule contained in the 3rd portion of Art.267 applies.
- The suit was filed before the period of prescription was completed; but since the act of the proposition does not produce effect in relation to the defendant except from the time of service of summons and this was done after expiry of the period of prescription in other words as the prescription was not interrupted by the factum of the filing of the suit and the act which would interrupt it, namely the service of summons, was done after expiry of one year the prescription is extinguished.
- In the 2nd and 3rd case the prescription gets interrupted in view of the article of 253.
- The circumstance that the summons has been delayed by virtue of the fact not attributable to the plaintiff results that the effect attributed to the summons by Art.552(2) of the Civil Code and by Art.485(a) of the Code of Civil Procedure has retroactive effect to the date of the filing of the suit that is to say in this case the prescription is considered to be interrupted not on the date of service but on the date in which the plaint was presented and received in the office.

SECTION I COMMENCEMENT AND PROSECUTION OF THE PROCEEDINGS

Article 264 – Duty to promote prosecution – Duty of probity on parties – Power of Judge to ascertain the truth - The initiative and the prosecution of the proceedings are upon the parties; it is their duty not to consciously formulate unjust prayers, not to plead facts contrary to the truth nor to take simply dilatory steps.

The Court has power to suo moto order steps and measures for discovery of the truth.

- Articles 264-279 - Proceedings - Corresponding provisions in C.P.C. 1908: -
 - Pleadings – Order VI.

Article 265 – Duty of parties to co-operate - The parties and their representative are bound to appear whenever they are notified to appear and furnish all the clarifications sought from them.

Article 266 – Power of Judge to render prompt Justice - Justice should be prompt. It is incumbent upon the judge to remove all the obstacles which come on the way of the regular progress of the cause, either refusing what is not relevant or purely dilatory, or directing what is necessary for the progress of the proceedings.

Article 267 - When the case is deemed to be filed - The proceedings stands initiated by instituting the same. The action is deemed as proposed, filed, or pending, as soon as the initial petition is received in the office. However, the mere institution has no effect in relation to the respondent until he is served, save what is provided in article 253.

§ Sole Paragraph: In the judicial division where there is more than one court the suit is deemed to be filed as soon as the petition is received in the registry which is on the turn.

Article 268 – Principle of stability of proceedings - Once the respondent is summoned, in principle, the proceedings remain the same as to the persons, object or relief and cause of action.

Article 269 – Necessary alteration due to joinder of new respondent - Until the stage of the pleadings is over, the petitioner may join in the cause new respondents when he finds their joinder is necessary in order to secure the standing to sue. The petitioner can take the same step when in the curative order the court holds that there was non-joinder of parties and as such the respondent was not a lawful party.

Article 270 – Other necessary modifications - The proceedings may be modified in relation to persons in the circumstances mentioned in the previous article and also;

§ 2: The final Judgment shall produce effects in relation to the transferee even if he does not intervene in the proceeding, except where the suit was liable to be registered and the transferee had registered the transfers before the registration of the suit.

Article 272 – Alternative prayers - It is permitted to frame alternative reliefs in relation to rights and obligations which by their nature or origin are alternative, or which may be granted in the alternative.

§ Sole Paragraph: When the election is left to the discretion of the debtor the omission to seek relief in the alternative is not a ground to refuse relief in the alternative.

Article 273 – Ancillary reliefs - It is lawful to pray for ancillary reliefs. Ancillary relief means that relief asked may be taken into consideration only when main relief cannot be granted.

§ Sole Paragraph: The inconsistency amongst the reliefs is not a ground to apply for subsidiary relief; but, the circumstances in sole paragraph of article 29 regarding joinder of parties will come in the way of the grant of the subsidiary reliefs.

Article 274 – Aggregation of reliefs - It is open to the plaintiff to seek more than one prayer cumulatively as against the same defendant which may be compatible with the form of proceeding, as to the competence to the court and absence of obstacles indicated in the sole paragraph of article 29.

Article 275 – Generalized reliefs - It is permissible to the plaintiff to seek general reliefs in the following cases.

- 1) When material object of the suit is general in nature as far as facts are concerned;
- 2) When it is not possible to find in a definitive manner the consequences of an illicit fact;
- 3) When the determination of the amount is dependent upon rendering of the accounts on any other act which ought to have been performed by the defendant.

§ Sole Paragraph: In the case of clause no. 1 and 2, the relief may be converted into specific by way of incidental proceeding of liquidation. The conversion will be left to the execution if it is not possible to grant the same in the suit for declaration.

Article 276 – Claim for instalment due – Where there is a case of periodical instalments either in cash or in kind, if the debtor does not pay, the prayer as well as the order may cover not only the arrears of the instalments due as also future instalments until the main obligation subsists. It is also permissible to ask for future instalments when eviction from a property is sought on expiry of lease and also in the similar cases where the absence of executable document at the date of the accrual of instalment, may cause grave prejudice to the creditor.

Article 277 – Amendment of pleadings by consent - When there is agreement between the parties, the relief as well as the cause of action may be altered at any stage, in the first or second instance except where it is found that the alteration fundamentally disturbs the trial, arguments or decision.

- Articles 277-278 – Amendment of pleadings - Corresponding provisions in C.P.C. 1908: -
 - Pleadings – O.VI
 - Amendment of pleadings – r. 17 of CPC

Article 278 – Amendment of pleadings when there is no consent - In the absence of agreement, the cause of action may be changed in the replication, if the proceedings admit it, unless the change is the consequence of admission made by the respondent and accepted by the petitioner. The relief may be also altered in the replication; the petitioner may also at any stage reduce the relief and amplify it till the decision of the first instance, if it is the development or consequence of the original prayer.

§ Sole Paragraph: If the modification of the relief is done in the course of trial, the same shall be noted in the rozanama.

- This is a provision for amendment of proceedings and its latter part is similar to O.6, R.17 of Civil Procedure Code, 1908

Article 279 – When counter claim is admissible - The defendant, in the counterclaim, may seek reliefs against the plaintiff. The counterclaim is admissible:

2. When the defendant desires to obtain compensation or claim the right to improvements or expenses relating to the thing, delivery of which is sought from him;
3. When the prayer of the defendant intends to achieve to his benefit, the same juridical effect which the plaintiffs proposes to obtain;
4. When the prayer of the defendant proposes to widen the object of the action, so that the sustainability or unsustainability of the act or of the basic fundamental juridical relation, may be adjudicated.

§ Sole Paragraph: The counterclaim is not admissible when to the prayer of the defendant entails a type of procedure different from that pertaining to the prayer of the plaintiffs, save where the prayer of the plaintiffs is subject to ordinary procedure and the prayer of the defendant is subject to a simpler form of ordinary procedure.

Article 280 – Consolidation of suits - Where there are separate suits filed which, in accordance with articles 29 and 30 could have been combined in one suit, the court shall order their consolidation upon the application of either party even though they may be pending in different courts, unless the stage of the proceedings or any other special reason is against such consolidation.

§ 1: The proceedings shall be appended to the proceeding which was filed in the first place, except where the reliefs are independent of each other, because in such case consolidation will be made in the order of the dependence

§ 2: The joining shall be applied for before the court where other proceedings are to be appended.

In such case, the suit shall stand stayed after the passing of the judgment.

§ Sole Paragraph: It is the duty of the party to bring on record the factum of the death or extinction of the co-plaintiff or his counterpart, as soon as he had notice of the death and it is possible for him to annex to the file document in support of the death. If not done so, all the acts done subsequent to the death which ought to have been certified will be of no effect.

Article 283 – Stay upon death or impediment of attorney - In case of clause no. 2 of article 281, as soon as the proof of the fact is produced, the suit shall immediately be stayed. Article 284 – Stay by Judge - The judge may order stay where the decision of the case is dependent on the judgment in another case already filed and when he is of the view that there is another ground to justify the stay.

§ 1: Despite pendency of the prejudicial cause, no suspension shall be ordered if there are well founded reasons to believe that the other case was instituted solely for the purpose of obtaining the stay or if the first case is at such an advanced stage that prejudice caused by the stay is much more than the advantages.

§ 2: When the stay is not on the ground of pendency of a prejudicial case, the time of duration of the stay shall be fixed in the order.

Article 285 – Stay to ensure compliance with Revenue laws - Matters in which the ownership or possession of a property or based on acts connected with an industry or profession subject to payment of tax shall remain in suspension until entry in the file or booklet of the property from where it is seen that the property has been inscribed in the matriz, or challan of payment of industrial tax is produced, or professional tax or payment of any of the instalment is produced.

The party who is prevented from attending the court, shall be represented by the Public Ministry or by an Advocate appointed by the judge. Periods of limitation shall not run during stay.  - Appeals - Ss. 96-115, O.XLI, XLII and XLIII

 - 2) Appeal from the latter – (‘Revista’) – art.721

However, the persons directly affected by the decision may appeal therefrom, even though they are not parties to the litigation or they are not necessary parties.

Article 681 – Loss of right to appeal - It is open to the parties to renounce in advance the right to appeal; but, such renunciation is lawful only when it proceeds from both the parties.

§ Sole Paragraph: The support to the appeal may take place, through application until the time fixed for presenting the pleadings of the appellant. With the act of support, the interested party owns up the steps already taken by the appellant and those which he may adopt later.

However, it is lawful to the supporting party, at any time to take the place of principal appellant while prosecuting the matter on his own; therefore, if the appellant withdraws the appeal, he may be given notice of the withdrawal, so that he may prosecute the appeal further as principal appellant.

CHAPTER XVIII VOLUNTARY JURISDICTION PROCEEDINGS

SECTION I GENERAL PROVISIONS

Article 1448 – Powers of the Judge in matters of fact in voluntary Jurisdiction proceedings –

In the exercise of voluntary jurisdiction the Court may freely investigate facts, collect evidence and recover information which it deems convenient for a proper decision. Only such evidence will be admitted as the Judge may find necessary.

- Articles 1448-1501 - Voluntary jurisdiction, Provisions regarding children and spouses are matter of Family Law and would be by and large in force.
- In Portuguese Procedural Law there is a traditional distinction between voluntary jurisdiction and adversarial jurisdiction. In fact the Old Portuguese Civil Procedure Code of 1876 made a reference to this distinction in its very first article.
- But as the distinction is not sharply laid down no such definition is found in the Portuguese Civil Procedure Code of 1939 instead the proceedings under voluntary jurisdiction are straight away listed exhaustively from arts.1452 to 1560.
- Never the less in a nutshell voluntary jurisdiction is an exercise jurisdiction which is essentially administrative in nature whereas adversarial jurisdiction involves the exercise of truly adjudicative powers.

Article 1449 – Requirements of convenience to prevail over strict legality – In the measures to be taken, the Court is not subject to strict rules of legality; it should adopt in each case a solution which it finds most convenient and adequate.

Article 1450 – Form of petition and defense – The application may be framed without paragraphs and any objection or reply may be filed in the same manner.

- There are certain proceedings in which defense is permissible only on certain grounds like delivery of minor (art. 1460), delivery of wife (art.1470) and taking of the wife back by husband (art. 1471). In these cases the defense may be raised in the very proceedings of delivery or taking back mentioned above.
- There are others in which there is a time limit for filing the defense (arts 1477 – 1528 & 1540).

- There are other cases in which Interested Parties have to be notified to give their say; but care has to be taken that the say or defense has to be filed within 5 days (arts.1507, 1543, 1550 & 1553) or within 10 days (art.1464).
- In remaining cases it is provided that the interested parties shall be heard or notified to reply without fixing the time for the reply (arts.1481, 1488, 1503, 1523, 1524, 1525, 1531, 1532, 1537 and 1538).
- These provisions have their significance when there is a reference to contest or time limit is fixed; where the law fixes no time limit the term contest is not used. In such cases the expression used is that they shall be heard or they shall be notified to give their say. From this, one can see that the legislature has avoided the operation of Art.490 regarding time limit and bring in to play the general rule contained in art.154.
- Therefore in cases in which no time limit is fixed the time limit is 5 days within which the persons directed to be heard or cited should file their reply.

Article 1451 - Bar on appeals and reversibility of decision - There shall be no appeal to the Supreme Court from the decisions pronounced in decision of voluntary jurisdiction. The decisions may however be freely modified without prejudice to the effects they have already produced.

If the spouses appear the Judge shall once again try to reconcile them. If he is able to do so, or the spouses have already reconciled, the divorce or provisional separation shall be declared without effect; if it is not possible to reconcile them divorce on final separation shall be decreed.

In case both the spouses or one of them do not appear, the provisional divorce or separation shall be of no effect.

The judgment, decree and in final divorce or separation shall produce the same effects as if pronounced in a contested proceeding, these effects shall date back in respect of the assets to the date on which the provisional divorce or separation has been authorized.

§ Sole Paragraph: The spouse who is away from the continent or the island in which the conference regulated by this article takes place may have himself represented with an attorney with specific powers.

- This settles the doubt under article 40 of decree dated 3-11-1910 as to when would be the course to be adopted when one of the spouses wanted the restoration of the conjugal union and the other insisted on divorce or separation.

SECTION IV CONSENT THROUGH COURT

Article 1477 - Consent through Court in cases of refusal - In case judicial consent is sought in cases permitted by law on the basis of refusal, the person refusing shall be summoned to give his say within 10 days.

On the appointed date after hearing the Interested Parties and after producing the evidence admissible the matter shall be decided, the decision being transcribed in the record of the hearing.

The witnesses and the documents shall be furnished until 3 days before the date fixed for decision. If there is no objection the Judge shall decide after obtaining the necessary information and clarifications.

- Obtaining of consent through Court in case another party represents it without sufficient case is a matter which arises under many provisions of the substantive law namely arts.326(1), 327(1), 1119(1), 1128(1), 1191(1), 1193(1), 1216, 1887, 2024, 2237(2), 2237(3) and 2261 of the Civil Code of 1867.

On the face of the pleadings and evidence produced and the clarification which may be obtained the consent shall be judicially made up or refused as may be deemed fit.

Article 1479 - Making up of consent by the Family Council - In cases where the family council is entitled to make up the consent the provision of article 1490 onwards shall be observed.

SECTION V ALIENATION OR LONG LEASE OF DOWRY ASSETS

Article 1480 - Petition for alienation of dowry assets and for making up of the consent - Judicial permission for alienation or granting of perpetual lease of dowry assets may be sought by the wife in all cases in which the law permits alienation and may also be sought by husband in the cases mentioned in sub-clauses of 2 & 4 of art.1149 of the Civil Code.

In the petition the purpose of the alienation and the reasons justifying it shall be specified attaching the documents which prove the consent of the other spouse. - 1) Total absence of other assets;
- 2) Total impossibility of providing for the indispensable maintenance with the income of the dowry;
- 3) Impossible for the husband to acquire the assets as a result of advanced age or illness which does not permit him to work.

§ 1: Impossibility to work may be proved only by way of examination

§ 2: Only the absolutely indispensable amount shall be allotted for maintenance.

Article 1483 - Need for inspection and registration of encumbrance in certain cases - In cases under clause 4 & 5 of article 1149 of the Civil Code the alienation shall not be authorized unless preceded by an inspection; and in the case of no.6 of the said article the registration of the encumbrance of dowry shall not be cancelled unless the said encumbrance on the assets offered in subrogation is registered or endorsed.

If the alienation is for maintenance of family the produce shall be deposited and the husband authorized to withdraw monthly from this deposit the amount which is awarded. SECTION VI

SALE, EMPHYTEUTIC LEASE OR CREATION OF ENCUMBRANCE ON ASSETS BELONGING TO LEGALLY DISABLED OR ABSENTEE PERSON

Article 1488 - Judicial permission for sale, emphyteutic lease or creation of encumbrance on assets of legally disabled person - When it is necessary to sell, give on emphyteutic lease, mortgage or any other way bind the assets of a minor or interdicted person and the act, is subject to judicial permission, the same shall be sought by an application, setting out the reasons for the transactions and furnishing along with the evidence;

The permission shall be granted or refusal after hearing the relatives of the legally disabled persons or other suitable persons which may be convenient to be heard and after taking suitable measures, hearing of the government pleader and of the owner of assets himself when he is more than 14 years of age or interdicted for prodigality being compulsory.

§ Sole paragraph: The application shall be part of the inventory proceeding if there is one or the proceedings for the interdiction.

- This provision is the remedy for the substantive provisions of Art.150 and Art.322 of the Civil Code of 1867 that is to obtain judicial permission for sale, emphyteutic lease, mortgage or creation of any charge or assets of minors or interdicted persons.
- To be more precise with the use of these special proceedings the following may be noted:
 - a. Minors may be subject to
 - (i) Parental power – Art 150 of Civil Code

- Parents require permission under Art.1488. The purpose is to find whether the alienation or the creations of encumbrance is for urgent necessity or clear benefit to the minor. The judge will ascertain this and grant or refuse permission accordingly.
- (ii) In the case of guardianship it is the family council and not the judge which authorizes the guardian to sell or mortgage the assets of the ward (Civil Code Art.224(13) and 224(16). Here therefore proceeding under article 1488 are not required.
 - The permission is obtained by seeking the convening of the family council in term of Art.1490 onwards for the purpose of deliberately on the issue.
- b. Persons interdicted for lunacy or for being deaf and dumb. Here there are two possibilities:
 - (i) Guardianship is exercised by father or mother;
 - (ii) Guardianship is exercised by other persons.
 - In the first case the parents have to seek permission to exercise their paternal power granted to them u/Art. 322 of the Civil Code, by seeking judicial permission u/Art. 1488 of Portuguese Civil Procedure Code. The need for judicial permission is laid down in Article 150 of the Civil Code. In the second case Art.1488 has no application because the system applicable to guardianship operates and for this reason the guardian has to seek permission from the family council through the procedure mentioned in Art. 1490.
 - Whatever has been stated in the respect of interdiction of lunacy applies for also interdiction for being deaf and dumb (Civil Code Art.339)
- c. Interdiction for prodigality
 - In the Civil Code there is no specific provision expressly laying down the need for permissions to sell or mortgage the assets of a prodigal person. But it is evident that curators or administrators of the person interdicted for prodigality cannot carry out these acts without permission either from the judge or from the family council, because it would be absurd that these persons would be in a better position than the parents and guardians therefore the question is whether the permission is to be sought from the Judge or the family council.
 - The earlier Portuguese Civil Procedure Code (Art.657, 658) provided that judicial permission was required. The same is the case today. Art.351 of the Civil Code attributes to the administration of the assets of the prodigals the same rights and obligations as possessed by the provisional curators of the assets of an absentee person. Now such provisional curators can only exercise purely administrative powers (Civil Code Art.59) in the case of acts which exceed the administrative function they will obtain permission; and this can be given only by the judge since there is no family council functioning along with the curator of the absentee person. This conclusion is also supported by making an analogy with the case of final curatorship (Civil Code Art.76). Otherwise also provisional or final curators of assets of the absentee person have to obtain permission of the judge by the procedure laid in Art.1488, this being clearly laid down in Art.1489. It has to be therefore taken to be very clear that the curators of the prodigal person require judicial permission by the procedure laid down in Art.1488 for the sale and emphyteutic lease, mortgage or creation of any encumbrance on the assets under their administration.

Article 1489 - Sale emphyteutic lease and creation of encumbrance on assets of the absentee-

The provisions of the preceding articles are also applicable to the sale, encumbrance, mortgage or creation of any other encumbrances on movable or immovable assets of an absentee person when provisional or final curatorship has been granted and the act is justified to prevent deterioration or deduction of the assets, payment of debts, to meet the cost of necessary or useful improvements or to meet any other urgent need.

SECTION VII
COUNCIL OF THE FAMILY AND FOR GUARDIANSHIP

Article 1490 - Requirement for constitution and convening for family council - If it becomes necessary to convene the family council to authorize any act, make good the consent or deliberate on matter within that powers, the application shall indicate the purpose of convening it and the reasons for the requirements, naming straight away the person who should constitute the council if it has not yet been constituted.

The judge shall hear the government pleader on formation of the council and may solicit the information which he thinks necessary.

Even after the council is constituted any relative who ought to have had preference may demand his appointment in place of a member already appointed and the replacement may be applied for by the person who is interested in having the council duly constituted.

§ Sole paragraph: The application shall be annexed to the inventory proceedings when there is one.

- The attributes of the family council are mentioned in a general manner in Art.224 of the Civil Code. Originally the entire matter was dealt with under Arts.217 to 219 of the Civil Code of 1867 but these provisions though sufficient in respect of the constitution of the family council, did not sufficiently regulate its function. Accordingly in the Civil Procedure Code of 1939 new matter has been included under Art.1490 onwards as follows:-
 - (i) Constitution of the family council – Art.1490, (ii) It's functioning – Arts.1491-1494, (iii) Appeal from the deliberations – Art.1495, (iv) Constitution of guardianship council – Art.1496, (v) Functioning of the said council – Arts.1497-1498, (vi) Appeal from the deliberations of the guardianship councils – Art.1499
 - As for Art.1490 it is general in scope whenever a council has to be constituted whatever may be its purpose, this is the provision that has to be followed. No doubt the provision of Art.207-209 of the Civil Code continue in force since Art.1490 does not indicate the persons who will constitute the council. The provision of Art.1490(3), are in conformity of the paragraph 3 of Art.307 of the Civil Code. It deals with the reconstitution of the council after it is constituted. Regarding the functioning, the second para of Art.1494 specifically adverts that Art.1493 and 1494 do not apply to the decisions which, pertain to the family council in orphanological inventory in Art.1392 onwards nor to the cases foreseen by Arts.1019 and 1442. They also don't apply, though there is no specific mention to the functioning of the council in proceedings of the interdiction; because in such proceedings the council doesn't decide but only issues an opinion and Arts.1493 and 1494 regulate the manner in which the council takes decisions. Art.1495 is general in application. It applies even in the cases covered by Arts.7392 onwards, Art.1019 and Art.1442. Once the family council takes a decision an appeal from the decision lies to the Tutorship Council in terms of Art.226 of the Civil Code;
 - Article 1495 does not confine the appeal to the subject matter of the deliberations of the decisions, it is limited to the question of valuation only. As it amounts to a real appeal the time limits and other requirement laid down in Arts.677 -690, with the exception of Art.689, have to be observed, because clause 2 of Art.1495 specifically declares that a further appeal lies to the high court from an order refusing to admit the appeal. This appeal is not specifically mentioned in Art.677 because it is not an appeal from a judicial division as such.
 - Article 1496-1499 apply to all cases of appeals to the guardianship council. Art.1496 alters the constitution of the guardianship council; instead of the Civil Judge and 2 substitutes it is now constituted by the guardianship Court.

Article 1491 - Summoning of the Council - Once the Council is constituted it shall be summoned to deliberate the members in the notice being notified of the main purpose for which they are being summoned.

The order of summons shall be notified to the government pleader to the minors of more than 14 years. To those interdicted for prodigality and the respective representatives and any other persons who may be interested in the decisions of the council.

The personal appearance of the members of council, of the government pleader and the representatives of the legally disabled persons is compulsory.

Article 1492 – Chairmanship - The judge presides over the family council without right to vote.

Article 1493 - Functioning of the council - On the date appointed for deliberations, at least three members of the council being present, the initial application shall be read and the applicant or his representative shall be allowed to speak and make a brief exposition meant to justify the content of the application and produce any evidence.

Thereafter any interested party may speak, opposing the application whether he has been summoned or has appeared on his own. The opponent may also produce any evidence.

Thereafter the government pleader and the representative of the legally disabled persons shall be heard. At the end the council shall retire along with the judge to the conference hall and there shall take its decision by absolute majority of the members present. The decision shall thereafter be inserted in the record of the proceedings.

- Corresponds to Section 110 of the Goa Succession, Special Notaries and Inventory Proceeding Act, 2012.

Article 1494 - Steps to be taken in case measures are necessary - If the council does not find itself able to decide in the light of the allegations and evidence produced it shall indicate the measures and classification which it thinks necessary.

These measures being promptly taken and classification obtained the council shall deliberate on the day fixed or designated, the space between the first and the second meeting being not more than 15 days.

§ 1: If the day of the second meeting is immediately fixed, the members of the council who have remained absent shall be notified.

For the second meeting only those persons which the council wants to hear and specifically indicates shall be summoned.

§ 2: The provisions of this article and the previous one shall not apply to the decision which the family council is competent to take in orphonological inventories, in terms of Art.1392 onwards, nor to the cases foreseen by Arts.1019 and 1442.

- Corresponds to Section 111 of the Goa Succession, Special Notaries and Inventory Proceeding Act, 2012.

Article 1495 - Appeal from decision - From the decisions of the family council when the valuation exceeds the pecuniary limits of the Civil Code of the judicial division, appeal may be filed to the guardianship council.

The appeal may be filed before the judge who has presided over the council, a further appeal shall lie to the High Court from the order refusing to admit the appeal. The appeal shall operate as stay unless the judge finds it necessary to immediately the decision of the family council.

- Corresponds to Section 112 of the Goa Succession, Special Notaries and Inventory Proceeding Act, 2012.

Article 1496 - Constitution of the Guardianship council - The guardianship is constituted by the code of guardianship of children in the respective judicial division.

- Corresponds to Sections 106 and 113 of the Goa Succession, Special Notaries and Inventory Proceeding Act, 2012.

Interested parties may within 8 days submit documents, apply for any steps or file return pleadings.

The president of the Tribunal after directing the enquiries and steps which he deems necessary shall fix the day for hearing which should be within 30 days following the 8 days mentioned in the proceeding clause.

- Corresponds to Sections 106 and 114 of the Goa Succession, Special Notaries and Inventory Proceeding Act, 2012.

Article 1498 - Hearing of the appeal - Once the council is constituted the applicant may submit before it a brief oral submission in support of the grounds of the appeal and submits any proof. Whoever is interested that the decision of the family council has to be maintained shall be permitted to reply and produce evidence. If there are many interested parties they shall all be represented by a single attorney.

Thereafter the government pleader shall be heard and thereafter the council shall deliberate in conference its decision being transcribed in the record.

- Corresponds to Section 115 of the Goa Succession, Special Notaries and Inventory Proceeding Act, 2012.

Article 1499 - Appeal from guardianship council - From the deliberation of the guardianship confirming that of the family council no further appeal lies; if it revokes the same an appeal may be filed in the High Court.

SECTION VIII VERIFICATION OF PREGNANCY

Article 1500 - Procedure for verification of pregnancy - Whenever for any purpose a woman requires verification as to whether she is pregnant or not she shall apply for an examination mentioning therein a physician.

The government pleader shall have opportunity with 48 hours to indicate another physician and the judge shall appoint a third one for breaking the tie. After the procedure is carried out the applicant may have her say within three days; the proceedings shall be submitted for the same period to the government pleader who may make his observations and thereafter order shall be passed taking as verified the condition of the applicant according to the replies of the three experts or majority of them if they are precise or conclusive.

- Corresponds to Section 117 of the Goa Succession, Special Notaries and Inventory Proceeding Act, 2012.

Article 1501 - Intervention of Medico Legal Council - If the condition of the applicant cannot be ascertained by reason of the replies of the physician being doubtful she may apply that the examination be carried out by the Medico Legal Council of the said circumscription. In such case the file shall be forwarded to the council who will examine the applicant and give its opinion. Upon the file being returned with the opinion, judgment shall be pronounced in accordance with the findings of the council.

These measures may be ordered suo moto or on the applicant of the government pleader or of any interested party. If they are applied for the judge may demand evidence and obtain such information which he may think necessary.

- Articles 1502 to 1506 – Protection of absentee are also peculiar to this Code.

Article 1503 - Provisional curatorship - Where provisional curatorship is sought in respect of the assets of an absentee person the need for the measure shall be shown and the presumed heirs of the absentee shall be indicated and in their absence the persons who have interest in the preservation of the assets.

The absentee shall be notified by notices of 30 days; and after hearing the government pleader when he is not the applicant as well as the partner's or possessors of the assets, after production of evidence and obtaining such information as may be considered necessary the curatorship shall be granted or not.

§ Sole paragraph: If there is more than one presumed heir, or in his absence more than one person interested in the preservation of the assets of the absentee the more suitable one from amongst them shall be chosen as the curator.

The notice in the announcement shall contain only the name of the absentee and the designation of the curator who has been appointed for him.

Article 1505 - Enlistment and security - The curator shall take charge of the assets through enlistment and after furnishing security. The suitability of the security shall be dealt with in the proceedings of curatorship after hearing the government pleader and taking the necessary measures.

Article 1506 - Cessation of curatorship - If the absentee returns and the curator refuses to handover the assets the provisions of Arts.1115 shall be observed.

§ Sole paragraph: As soon as the court comes to know about the absentee and the place where he resides, he shall be officially notified that the assets are in provisional curatorship and the curatorship shall continue until he takes measures.

- This is connected with Art. 63(1) of the Civil Code.

SECTION X JUDICIAL LEASES

Article 1507 - Procedure for lease of share - When any co-holder desires that the property be leased in public auction he shall apply that the possessor and other co-holders be notified to within 5 days oppose the application or declare whether they agree to the lease. If there is opposition the matter shall be decided after the necessary steps. It is presumed that the co-holders which remains ex-parte give their consent.

Article 1508 - Form of lease - The provisions which regulate judicial sale are applicable to lease to the extent to which they are applicable.

Article 1509 - Request for improvements - In the 10 days following the sale the possessor may raise in the same proceeding a claim for any improvements made by him from which they increase in rent errors. After notifying the co-holder to file their objections, the terms of an ordinary suit, summary or very summary proceedings shall be followed depending on the valuation.

- The procedure in Arts.1507-1509 is for enforcing the right given by Art.2191 of the Civil Code to the co-holders to demand the lease of their share.

Article 1510 - Applicability to lease or common assets - What is mentioned in this Section is equally applicable to the lease of common assets, all the co-owners being notified; and any of them may ask for the value of the improvements to which he is entitled.

- This is related to Art.2179 of the Civil Code.

SECTION XI NOTICE FOR PRE-EMPTION

Article 1511 - Procedure for giving notice of pre-emption or preference - If it is desired that anybody should be notified to exercise if he so desires the right of preference there shall be specified in the application the price and the conditions of the agreement and it shall be prayed that the person be notified to declare within 8 days if he or she wants to exercise the rights of preference. After carrying out the procedure the application and the certificate shall be handover by the clerk in the court office.

In case the person summoned desires to exercise the rights of preference he shall so state to the head of the court office, who shall draw up the necessary written record pursuant to the certificate, if it is within time. In the case of refusal or doubts on the part of the head of the Court office, the interested party may apply to the judge to have the written record drawn up.

After the record is made, the person seeking to exercise preference shall lose his right if within 20 days he does not execute the respective deed or does not apply that the opposite party be notified to receive the price in the office on the day and time designated by the judge, on penalty of being deposited. If afterwards the person exercising right of preference does not deliver or deposit the price he shall similarly lose the right besides being subject to liability for losses and damages.

§ Sole paragraph: Upon the price being paid or deposited the assets shall be adjudicated in the favour of the person exercising right of preference.

- Articles 1511-1518 – Preemption is peculiar law.
- The Civil Code recognises the right of preference or pre-emption in the following cases:-
 - Amongst co-owners, Art.1566
 - Owner and holder (lessee) on emphyteusis, Art.1678 & 1704
 - Cession with reservation Art.1708 to the possessor or co-holder 2-1-95
 - Dominant and servient owner in the case of easement, Art.2309(1).
 - Owners and lessees of commercial establishments, Art.9 & 11 of Law nos.1662 of 4-9-1924.
- Article 1511 applies where an independent notice of preference is sought. However where other judicial proceedings are pending like execution, bankruptcy or insolvency the procedural provisions relating to the same provide for a notice of preference.

Article 1512 - Notice where the right of preference is available simultaneously to various persons - If the right of preference is available to various persons simultaneously, all shall be notified to appear in the court on the day and the time designated to effect the licitation among them.

The result of the licitation shall be recorded in a written record in which the highest bid of each participant will be recorded. To the participant who has offered the highest bid the provisions of the preceding sections shall apply in the matter of losing the right of preference.

§ Sole paragraph: If the participant in licitation neither pays nor deposits the price within the time, the right of preference shall devolve upon the interested party who has offered the next highest bid and so on successively, but the time for payment or deposit in the case of each of these interested parties, shall stand reduced to 8 days. As each of the participants in the licitations goes on losing his right the applicant for the notice of preference shall inform the fact by means of a new notification, to the next participant. In the event of devolution of right of preference in terms of this paragraph the participants in the licitation incur no liability if they don't maintain their bid and do not want to exercise their right.

- A case of this nature could arise for example: -when the owner of a land locked property has an easement of passage through various properties. In such case if the owner of the land locked property desires to sell the same he shall offer a right of preference to the various servient owners (Civil Code Art.2309(3)).
- It could also happen u/Art.1566 of the Civil Code, where the co-owners are many and have equal rights.

Article 1513 - Notification in case of right of preference in various persons successively - If various persons successively have right of preference they may all be notified to declare whether they intend to avail of the said right in case it comes to belong to them or the notification may be made to each one as and when his turn comes as a result of the remuneration or loss of right by the previous interested party.

In the first case the person to whom the right of preference belongs in the second place shall have to pay or deposit the price within 20 days after the expiry of the period in which the first one was entitled to exercise his right of preference and so on successively except if the 20 days end before the next preferring party is notified, or before 20 days have expired from the notice. Because in such cases the person exercising right of preference may always effect the payment or the deposit in the 20 days following the notice to him.

But if any of the interested parties declares that he wants to exercise preference and thereafter fails to effect the payment and deposit within time this fact shall be brought to the knowledge of the next person entitled to preference by means of a fresh notice and the said next preferring party shall pay the price within 8 days.

- In the case of Art.1512 the right is equal and simultaneous but in case of Art.1513, the right of preference arises in a hierarchical manner. All are not in a same position, the right of some of the parties arises before that of others. An example of this is Art.2195(1) of the Civil Code where in , if a co-holder wants to sell the right of preference in first place goes to the possessor and thereafter to the other co-holder. Similarly u/Art.1566 of the Civil Code the person having the bigger share has the first right of preference and the one with the next share has the second one and so on.

Article 1514 - Notification in case of assets belonging to the inheritance - If the assets belong to the inheritance the administrator shall be notified except if they have already been auctioned or have been included in any of the shares in which case only the respective party shall be notified. The administrator as soon as he is notified shall apply for the conference parties, to decide whether the estate should exercise the right of preference. In case there are legally disabled persons who are not represented by their parents, the family council shall also participate in the conference.

If the estate does not exercise right of preference, any of the heirs exercise the right within the same time, independently of any other notice.

§ Sole paragraph: In case more than one heir comes forward to exercise his right of preference, the priority shall be determined by the greatest size of the shares; in case the payment or deposit is not made within time the provisions in the last part of the preceding article shall be applicable. If the shares are equal, auction shall follow in terms of Art.1512.

- This article deals with a case in which the right of preference vests on an undivided estate or inheritance. Suppose an owner of a property on emphyteusis wants to sell it, he has to offer the right of preference to the partner in emphyteusis, but the partner is dead and his estate is undivided or suppose the owner of a land locked property wants to sell it but the servient heritage is part of an undivided heritage or even one co-owner is dead and his share is part of an inheritance. All these are cases covered by Art.1514.
- In the conference of interested parties, mentioned in this section it is the interested parties and not the administrator who will decide whether the estate will exercise right of preference or not. If the conference does not take place or does not take a decision it is taken that the estate is not exercising its right of preference and the heirs will be free to exercise their right individually.
